I. Contributions – Political Party Accounts (including Public Funding of Presidential Elections, National Political Party Committee Accounts, Party Committee Independent Expenditure Accounts, and Federal Election Activity by State and Local Committees)

A. Legislative Update

1. Gabriella Miller Kids First Research Act, Public Law 113-94, 128 Stat. 1085 (2014)
 - a. This Act terminated public funding for Presidential nominating conventions.
 - b. This Act also directed the U.S. Treasury to transfer the funds formerly known as convention funds to a fund known as the 10-Year Pediatric Research Initiative Fund.
 - c. Introduced by Rep. Gregg Harper (MS-3), with a bipartisan group of 152 co-sponsors, H.R. 2019 passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 295 to 103, and passed the Senate by unanimous consent. The President signed it into law on April 3, 2014.
 - d. In 2014, U.S. Treasury transferred $37.8 million to the Fund, of which $12.6 million has been appropriated for use by the National Institutes of Health.

Contributions: National Party Accounts

Consolidated and Further Appropriations Act of 2015

- ▣ Provisions of “cromnibus” permit national party committees to establish new accounts for:
 - Presidential nominating conventions
 - Election recounts and other legal expenses
 - Party headquarters buildings
- ▣ Contribution limit = 300% limit to national party
 - $45,000/yr – multicandidate committees
 - $100,200/yr – all other contributors (2015-16)

B. Legislative Update

1. Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2015, Div. N, § 101, Public Law 113-235, 128 Stat. 2130, 2772-73 (2014).
 - a. One provision of the “cromnibus” provides that national party committees may establish accounts to defray certain expenses incurred with respect to:
 - (1) presidential nominating conventions;
 - (2) election recounts and other legal proceedings; and
 - (3) headquarters buildings.
 - b. The contribution limits applicable to these accounts are 300% of the limit on contributions to national party committees, which means that the accounts may accept up to $45,000 per year from multicandidate committees and $100,200 per year from all other contributors during the 2015-2016 election cycle.
 - c. Descriptions of these provisions appear in the Congressional Record: 160 Cong. Rec. H9286 (daily ed. Dec. 11, 2014) (statement of Rep. Boehner) and 160 Cong. Rec. S6814 (daily ed. Dec. 13, 2014) (statement of Sen. Reid).
 - d. Relevant articles:
 - National Parties May Establish New Accounts, FEC Record (Dec. 22, 2014)
 - Contribution Limits for 2015-2016, FEC Record (Feb. 3, 2015)
 - FEC Issues Interim Guidance for National Party Accounts, FEC Record (Feb. 18, 2015)

Recent Developments in the Law

2. H.R. 154, Close the Floodgates Act, Rep. Derek Kilmer (WA-6)
 - a. Introduced on January 6, 2015.
 - b. A bill to repeal the provision of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2015, that amended FECA to establish separate contribution limits for contributions made to national parties to support presidential nominating conventions, party headquarters buildings, and recounts and other legal proceedings.
 - c. Referred to the Committee on House Administration.
3. H.R. 412, Rep. Thomas J. Cole (OK-4)
 - a. Introduced on January 20, 2015.
 - b. A bill to terminate the presidential public funding programs.
 - c. Reported by the Committee on House Administration, H.R. Rep. 114-362 (Dec. 3, 2015).

C. Policy Update

1. Party Contribution Limits

In response to the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, the Commission reviewed a draft outline Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. In December 2015, the Commission voted to refer this matter to the Regulation Committee for further work.

Libertarian Nat'l Comm. v. FEC

- ▣ First Amendment challenge to FECA's $33,400 annual limit on individual contributions to national party committees for general, federal election uses.
- ▣ Plaintiff argues that the $33,400 limit is invalid since national parties may now accept three times as much to use for conventions, headquarters and recounts.

D. Litigation Update

1. Libertarian National Committee, Inc. v. FEC, No. 16-cv-121 (D.D.C. filed Jan. 25, 2016)

- a. The Libertarian National Committee challenges FECA's $33,400 annual limit on individual contributions to national party committees for general, federal election uses.
- b. Plaintiff contends that the $33,400 limit is a content-based speech restriction that violates the First Amendment on its face. Plaintiff argues that there is no justification for the $33,400 limit now that the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act allows parties to accept three times that amount to support presidential nominating conventions, party headquarters buildings, and recounts and other legal proceedings.
- c. In addition, plaintiff also brings a narrower First Amendment claim challenging the $33,400 limit as it applies to a particular bequest of $235,000 that a donor has left for the LNC.

Contributions: Federal Election Activity

Republican Party of Louisiana v. FEC

- ▣ Challenge to requirements that state and local parties pay for FEA with funds permitted under federal contribution restrictions or through an allocated mix of federal and “Levin funds,” and report the activity
- ▣ Plaintiffs contend the First Amendment requires that they be permitted to fund their planned GOTV, voter registration, and other activity using a greater percentage of funds raised under Louisiana law

2. Republican Party of Louisiana v. FEC*, No. 15-cv-1241, ___ F. Supp. 3d ___, 2015 WL 7574753 (D.D.C. Nov. 25, 2015)
- a. The Republican Party of Louisiana, the Jefferson Parish Republican Parish Executive Committee, and the Orleans Parish Republican Executive Committee challenge the requirement that state and local political parties pay for “federal election activity” with funds compliant with federal source and amount restrictions or, for certain activity, through an allocated mix of federal and “Levin funds.” 52 U.S.C. § 30125(b)(1), (c). “Federal election activity” includes certain get-out-the-vote activity, voter identification efforts, generic campaign activity promoting a political party, and voter registration conducted within a specified time prior to a federal election. (“Levin funds” are funds permissible under state law and subject to several other restrictions, but not all of the restrictions of federal law.) Plaintiffs also challenge the requirement that “federal election activity” be reported to the FEC. 52 U.S.C. § 30104(e)(2).
 - b. Plaintiffs contend that the First Amendment requires that they be permitted to fund the activity through an allocated mix of federal funds and funds raised under Louisiana law (including a contribution limit on individuals of $100,000 per four years).
 - c. In addition to their claims to have the statute struck down facially, plaintiffs also bring in the alternative three narrower claims seeking to have the provisions declared unconstitutional as applied in certain specific circumstances.

- d. On November 25, 2015, the court granted plaintiffs' request for the case to be heard under a special judicial review provision under which a three-judge district court will hear the case and there is a right to appeal directly to the Supreme Court.

Contributions: Biennial Aggregate Limits

McCutcheon v. FEC Rulemaking

- ▣ In McCutcheon v. FEC, Supreme Court struck down biennial aggregate limits on overall individual contributions to candidates, parties & PACs
- ▣ Final rule deleted regulation that implemented FECA aggregate contribution limits; made technical and conforming changes to other regulations
- ▣ Effective December 24, 2014

II. Contributions: Biennial Aggregate Limits

A. Policy Update

1. Removal of Aggregate Biennial Contribution Limits (McCutcheon), 79 Fed. Reg. 77373 (Dec. 24, 2014) (Final Rule)

- a. In April 2014, in McCutcheon v. FEC, the Supreme Court struck down FECA's biennial aggregate contribution limits, which had limited individuals to giving $48,600 to candidates and $74,600 to non-candidate committees during one election cycle.
- b. To conform its regulations to the McCutcheon decision, the Commission deleted 11 CFR 110.5, which implemented the FECA's aggregate contribution limits.
- c. The Final Rule also made technical and conforming changes to several other regulations.
- d. Effective date: December 24, 2014.

2. Earmarking, Affiliation, Joint Fundraising, Disclosure, and Other Issues (McCutcheon), 79 Fed. Reg. 62361 (Oct. 17, 2014) (Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking)
 - a. Commission asked for public comment on whether to begin a rulemaking to revise other regulations following the McCutcheon decision.
 - b. Specifically, whether to revise its regulations regarding earmarking, affiliation, joint fundraising committees, and disclosure.
 - c. The Commission received more than 32,000 comments and held a day-long public hearing on February 11, 2015.
 - d. Comments received are available at <http://sers.fec.gov/fosers/viewreg.htm?regno=2014-01>
 - e. On May 21, 2015, the Commission voted 3-3 on a motion to open a rulemaking in this matter.

Contributions: Per Election Limits

III. Contributions: Per Election Limit

A. Litigation Update

1. Holmes v. FEC, __ F.3d __ (D.C. Cir. Apr. 26, 2016)
 - a. The plaintiffs here challenge FECA's individual, per-election contribution limit, asserting that the per-election structure of FECA's limit on individual campaign contributions unconstitutionally prevented them from contributing $5,200 each to certain candidates in connection with those candidates' 2014 general election campaigns.

- b. On April 26, 2016, a panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit held that the plaintiffs' equal protection claim against FECA did not qualify to be heard by the entire D.C. Circuit under a special FECA judicial review provision. The plaintiffs had argued that FECA discriminated against them because they could not give $5,200 to their favored candidates for the general election, while other candidates who were unopposed in primaries could use leftover primary-election funds for their general election campaigns. But the D.C. Circuit explained that the source of plaintiffs' complaints was an FEC regulation, 11 CFR 110.3(c)(3), which plaintiffs had not challenged, and not FECA.
- c. The D.C. Circuit also held that the plaintiffs' First Amendment claim did qualify to be heard by the entire D.C. Circuit because it was not obviously frivolous. The plaintiffs argue that the $2,600 per election limit violates the First Amendment because a contribution of $5,200 per election would not cause quid pro quo corruption. The D.C. Circuit recognized that the district court had found that this argument contradicted settled Supreme Court precedent, but explained that even so this did not render plaintiffs' argument obviously frivolous.

AO 2016-03 (George Holding for Congress)

- ☐ Shortly before the March 15, 2016, NC primary election, a federal court found that two NC congressional districts were improperly gerrymandered and ordered the state to enact a remedial plan. In response, NC scheduled a new congressional primary election on June 7, 2016.
- ☐ The Commission concluded that Rep. Holding may raise additional contributions subject to a new contribution limit for the June 7 primary.

B. Policy Update

1. AO 2016-03 (George Holding for Congress)

- a. George Holding represents North Carolina's 13th congressional district. He was running unopposed for his party's nomination for reelection in the primary scheduled for March 15, 2016.
- b. On February 5, 2016, a federal district court found that two congressional districts in North Carolina were impermissibly racially gerrymandered and the court ordered the North Carolina legislature to enact a remedial plan. In response, North Carolina redrew the district lines and moved the congressional primary from March 15, 2016, to June 7, 2016. Now Representative Holding is running for his party's nomination in state's new 2nd congressional district on June 7, 2016, against the district's incumbent.
- c. Representative Holding's campaign committee asked whether it may raise additional contributions subject to a new contribution limit for the June 7, 2016 primary.
- d. The Commission concluded that it may do so because the June 7 primary is a different election from the March 15 election.

IV. Contributions: Federal Government Contractors

A. Litigation Update

1. Wagner v. FEC*, 793 F.3d 1, (D.C. Cir. July 7, 2015) (en banc), cert. denied sub nom., Miller v. FEC, No. 15-428, 2016 WL 207263 (Jan. 19, 2016)
 - a. This case is a constitutional challenge under the First Amendment and equal protection component of the Fifth Amendment to the prohibition on contributions by federal government contractors, 52 U.S.C. § 30119, as applied to individual contractors.
 - b. Pursuant to a FECA special judicial review provision, the constitutional issues were considered by all eleven active judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit (an en banc sitting). In July 2015, the court upheld the statute.
 - c. The court found there are important government interests in combatting quid pro quo corruption and its appearance and in merit-based public administration, and that the contractor prohibition furthers those purposes.
 - d. The ban on contributions is “closely drawn to avoid unnecessary abridgment of associational freedoms,” the court found, given the heightened risk of quid pro quo corruption and interference with merit-based public administration associated with government contracts.

- e. The statute was also not unconstitutionally underinclusive or a denial of equal protection of the laws, the court concluded, even though it does not reach certain entities and individuals associated with firms that have government contracts, federal employees, and recipients of other government benefits such as grants. Plaintiffs failed to establish that the contractor provision was not serving the government's cited purposes and was instead serving an impermissible one, such as disfavoring a particular speaker or viewpoint.
- f. The Supreme Court denied plaintiffs' petition for certiorari on October 2, 2015. The case at that point had a different name, Miller v. FEC.

V. Contributions: Multicandidate Status

A. Litigation Update

1. Stop Reckless Economic Instability caused by Democrats PAC, et al. v. FEC*, ___ F.3d ___, 2016 WL 715540 (4th Cir. Feb. 23, 2016).
 - a. Stop Reckless Economic Instability caused by Democrats PAC (“Stop PAC”), Tea Party Leadership Fund, the Alexandria Republican City Committee, and American Future PAC claim that certain limits infringe upon their First Amendment rights of association and expression and the Fifth Amendment’s guarantee of equal protection.
 - b. They seek to have:
 - (1) the six-month waiting period for multicandidate PAC status struck down, so that the limit on contributions from newly formed PACs to candidates would be raised from $2,700 per election (and indexed for inflation) to $5,000 per election once a new PAC has more than 50 contributors and makes at least five contributions;

- (2) the limit on contributions from multicandidate PACs to state party committees raised from $5,000 per calendar year to $10,000 per calendar; and
- (3) the limit on contributions from multicandidate PACs to national party committees raised from $15,000 per calendar year to $33,400 per calendar year (and indexed for inflation).
- c. In each case, plaintiffs seek whichever contribution limit is higher between 52 U.S.C. § 30116(a)(1) (the statutory limits for persons, including newly formed PACs) and 52 U.S.C. § 30116(a)(2) (the statutory limits for multicandidate PACs).
- d. On February 23, 2016, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals dismissed the challenge to the six-month waiting period as moot, since the plaintiffs asserting that challenge had become multicandidate PACs during the litigation. The Court also rejected the challenge to the limits on multicandidate PAC contributions to parties, because plaintiffs failed to demonstrate that FECA discriminates against multicandidate committees.
- e. In April 2016, the Fourth Circuit rejected the plaintiffs' request for rehearing.

A. Litigation Update

1. FEC v. Johnson, et al.*, No. 15-cv-439 (D. Utah filed Jun. 19, 2015)
 - a. In this case, the FEC alleges that Utah businessman Jeremy Johnson and former Utah Attorney General John Swallow used straw donors to contribute in excess of $70,000 to two candidates for United States Senate during the 2009-2010 election cycle.
 - b. As a result, the Commission's complaint asserts claims against Johnson for knowing and willfully violating FECA's ban on making a contribution in the name of another, 52 U.S.C. § 30122, and FECA's per-election limit on individual contributions to a federal candidate, 52 U.S.C. § 30116(a)(1)(A). VII. Contributions: Payments for Food, Beverages, and Valet Parking at Campaign Events

A. Policy Update

1. AO 2015-07 (Hillary for America)

- a. A campaign committee asked whether attendees at the committee's campaign events may pay their own food, beverages, and valet parking without making in-kind contributions to the committee.
- b. The Commission concluded that attendees at the campaign events may do so because the committee did not plan to provide food, beverages, or valet parking for any attendees. Thus the attendees' payments to attend did not include these expenses, and the attendee's purchases for their own food, beverages, or valet parking would not relieve the committee of any expenses it would otherwise incur.

I. Reporting: Electioneering Communications

A. Litigation Update

1. Van Hollen v. FEC*, 811 F. 3d 486 (D.C. Cir. Jan. 21, 2016)
 - a. Challenge to FEC regulations on the disclosure of donations given to fund electioneering communications.
 - b. Representative Van Hollen claims that 11 CFR 104.20(c)(9) is contrary to FECA. The regulation requires the disclosure of any donation of $1,000 or more to corporations (including nonprofits) or labor organizations when the donation “was made for the purpose of furthering electioneering communications.”
 - c. Van Hollen argues that FECA requires corporations and unions to disclose all donations they receive of $1,000 or more unless the donations for electioneering communications have been segregated in a separate bank account.
 - d. On November 25, 2014, following an earlier remand from the Court of Appeals, the district court found the Commission’s rationale for the regulation unreasonable and unsupported by the evidence in the rulemaking record, and also found that the regulation frustrated the statute’s disclosure objective. The court vacated the regulation.

- e. Intervenor-defendants Center for Individual Freedom and Hispanic Leadership Fund have appealed the decision.
- f. On January 21, 2016, the Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit reversed the district court and upheld the regulation. The Court found the Commission's interpretation a persuasive one that was consistent with other parts of FECA and reasonably filled in a gap left by Congress.
- g. The court concluded the purpose requirement was a justified response to changed circumstances after a Supreme Court decision, and not an "arbitrary and capricious" one when reviewed under the Administrative Procedure Act. The court also found that the Commission had adequately explained its decision.
- h. On March 4, 2016, Plaintiff filed a petition for rehearing en banc with the Court of Appeals.

A. Litigation Update

1. CREW v. FEC*, No. 16-cv-259 (D.D.C. filed Feb. 16, 2016)

- a. In this case, plaintiffs challenge the Commission's dismissal of their administrative complaint claiming that Crossroads GPS, a 501(c)(4) organization, failed to disclose contributors in certain independent expenditure reports the group filed with the Commission.
- b. FECA and Commission regulations require persons who spend in excess of certain amounts on independent expenditures to report that spending to the FEC. 52 U.S.C. § 30104(c)(1), (g); 11 CFR 109.10. Under the FEC's regulations, the filer must identify in that report each person from whom the filer received a contribution in excess of $200 that was "made for the purpose of furthering the reported independent expenditure." 11 CFR 109.10(e)(1)(vi) (emphasis added).
- c. Plaintiffs allege that the Commission arbitrarily and capriciously dismissed their complaint, because there was reason to believe Crossroads GPS violated 11 CFR 109.10(e)(1)(vi).

- d. Additionally, plaintiffs argue that this FEC regulation is invalid, since it allegedly conflicts with the statute's allegedly broader reporting requirement. That statutory provision requires the reporting of a donor who gave "for the purpose of furthering an independent expenditure." 52 U.S.C. § 30104(c)(2)(C) (emphasis added). CREW argues that the FEC should have found reason to believe Crossroads GPS violated that statutory provision as well.
- e. Finally, plaintiffs also argue that the Commission arbitrarily and capriciously failed to find reason to believe Crossroads GPS violated 52 U.S.C. § 30104(c)(2), which plaintiffs claim requires the disclosure of any persons making contributions to the filer "for the purpose of influencing a federal election generally."

B. Litigation Update

1. Combat Veterans for Congress Political Action Committee, et al. v. FEC, 795 F. 3d 151 (D.C. Cir. July 28, 2015)

- a. Combat Veterans for Congress PAC filed three FEC reports late and the Commission assessed a total of $8,690 in civil penalties on the committee and its treasurer in his official capacity. The committee filed a petition seeking review of the administrative fine.

- b. Plaintiffs contended that the Commission had not complied with the Federal Election Campaign Act when it used a “no-objection” voting procedure when initiating agency proceedings against the defendant despite the Act’s requirement that there be “affirmative votes.” The D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals concluded that any such error was harmless because it had not prejudiced the defendants and the Commission later found the defendants liable using marked ballots.
- c. Plaintiffs made a number of other contentions rejected by the court, including that the committee should not be held liable because its former treasurer had recklessly left his post and prevented the committee from filing timely. The court concluded that the Commission was not required to find that only the former treasurer should be held liable in his personal capacity, and that the Commission had reasonably fined both the committee and its treasurer in his official capacity.

A. Policy Update

1. AO 2014-04 (Enterprise Holdings)

- a. A corporation asked whether federal law preempted New York law regarding the corporation's use of payroll deductions to process voluntary contributions to its SSF.
- b. The Commission concluded that the deductions were permissible under the Act and did not reach the preemption question because the state clarified that the state law did not apply to payroll deductions made in accordance with the Act and Commission regulations to facilitate contributions to a federal SSF.

2. AO 2014-05 (Henry Ford Health System Government Affairs Services)

- a. An SSF asked whether it may solicit contributions from employees of its connected organization's corporate parent and that parent's other subsidiaries, and whether the Act preempted Michigan law on this issue.
- b. The Commission concluded that the solicitations were permissible under the Act, and it did not reach the preemption issue because the state officially interpreted the law as not regulating contributions made to support or oppose federal candidates.

- a. The Commission approved a proposal by a for-profit corporation to offer an internet-based service through which users would be able to support or oppose certain actions of federal candidates, including by making contributions to candidates whose actions the users support.
- b. The Commission concluded that the requestor would process contributions as a service to contributors, and not to the recipient political committees, and would not be making contributions to those committees.

2. AO 2015-11 (FYP)

- a. The Commission approved an LLC's proposal for processing contributions to political committees through its web-platform. FYP proposed to "round up" a participating user's credit or debit card transactions to the next whole dollar amount and provide the difference between the original transactions and the resulting rounded up amounts to political committees or other nonprofit organizations designated by the user.
- b. Although the Commission approved the request, it could not agree on the legal basis for its conclusion.

3. AO 2015-12 (Ethiq)

- a. The Commission approved a proposal by a for-profit corporation that sought to provide factual information about candidates to its users, including the candidates' voting records, statements, and campaign finance information.
- b. The Commission concluded that Ethiq's proposal was similar to traditional voter guides and other web-based proposals the Commission previously approved. Disbursements for such distributions do not constitute contributions.

4. AO 2016-01 (Ethiq)

- a. Ethiq subsequently asked whether its distribution of news content via its website and mobile application qualified for the media exemption under FECA.
- b. The Commission concluded that the costs incurred by Ethiq in covering or carrying news stories, commentary, and editorials on its website and app were encompassed by FECA's media exemption and therefore did not constitute "expenditures" or "contributions" under the FECA and Commission regulations.

 - a. Plaintiffs Public Citizen, Craig Holman, ProtectOurElections.org, and Kevin Zeese challenge the Commission's dismissal of their allegation that Crossroads GPS, an entity organized under Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code, violated FECA by failing to register and report as a political committee.
 - b. Plaintiffs contend that the group of Commissioners whose votes prevented the Commission from moving forward with an investigation acted contrary to law.
 - c. The case raises a number of issues regarding the determination of political committee status, including whether it was reasonable for the controlling group of Commissioners to decline to count ads that were not express advocacy towards political committee status and whether it was reasonable to examine Crossroads GPS's spending according to the entity's fiscal year rather than by calendar year.

- d. Crossroads GPS sought to intervene in the case and that request was granted by the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals on June 5, 2015.
- 2. Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington v. FEC*, No. 14-cv-1419-CRC (D.D.C. filed Aug. 20, 2014)
 - a. Plaintiffs Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington (CREW) and its executive director, Melanie Sloan challenge the Commission's dismissal of their administrative complaints alleging that two entities violated FECA by failing to register and report as political committees: American Action Network and Americans for Job Security.
 - b. The case raises the same issues discussed in regard to Public Citizen, above.
 - c. CREW also contends that the Commission has issued policies and/or a "de facto regulation" regarding these issues without following the procedural requirements of notice and an opportunity to comment for making regulations. Because FECA provides an alternative, exclusive avenue for challenging Commission enforcement decisions, the Commission's motion to dismiss that part of the case was granted on August 13, 2015.
 - d. The Commission has moved for summary judgment.
- 3. Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington v. FEC*, No. 15-cv-2038-CRC (D.D.C. filed Nov. 23, 2015)
 - a. The same plaintiffs from the previous case challenge the Commission's dismissal of their administrative complaint about a different entity, the Commission on Hope, Growth and Opportunity.
 - b. The Commissioners who voted to dismiss the administrative complaint cited the statute of limitations and the dissolution in the interim of the entity at issue. The reasonableness of that determination is at issue in this case.

2. Stop Hillary PAC, et al. v. FEC, No. 1:15-cv-01208
(E.D. Va. filed September 22, 2015)

- a. Stop Hillary PAC and Dan Backer facially challenge the restriction on unauthorized committees including candidate names in the official names of committees. See 52 U.S.C. 30102(e)(4); 11 CFR 102.14. They contend the requirement violates the First Amendment rights of all unauthorized committees.
- b. In addition, plaintiffs challenge the statutory requirements as applied to entities whose names show unambiguous opposition to the named candidates. In addition to the First Amendment, plaintiffs contend the requirements as applied violate their right to equal protection under law.
- c. Plaintiffs also contend 11 CFR. 102.14, which creates three exceptions to the statutes, constitutes speaker- and content-based restrictions in violation of the First Amendment.
- d. The district court denied plaintiffs' motion for preliminary injunction on December 21, 2015.
- e. On March 28, 2016, the plaintiffs agreed to voluntarily dismiss their lawsuit without prejudice.

I. Personal Use of Campaign Funds

A. Litigation Update

1. FEC v. Craig for U.S. Senate*, __ F.3d __, 2016 WL 850823 (D.C. Cir. Mar. 4, 2016)

- a. This case is an FEC enforcement action alleging that former Senator Larry Craig and his campaign committee violated FECA's ban on the personal use of campaign funds, 52 U.S.C. § 30114(b). The Complaint alleges that defendants spent more than $200,000 in campaign funds to pay for then-Senator Craig's personal legal expenses resulting from an arrest for disturbing the peace in an airport.
- b. On September 30, 2014, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia found that the campaign funds at issue were converted to Senator Craig's personal use because the legal bills would have existed irrespective of his duties as an officeholder.
- c. The court ordered Senator Craig to disgorge $197,535 and pay a civil penalty of $45,000 to the United States Treasury.

- d. Defendant appealed. On March 4, 2016, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit affirmed the district court decision. The appellate court agreed with the FEC that the correct test for determining if legal expenses are personal use depends on if the allegations of the legal proceeding at issue were related to the candidate's campaign activities or the officeholder's duties. Because the allegations of Senator Craig's legal proceeding related to his disturbing the peace arrest, and not his officeholder duties, his resulting expenses were personal. The Court also affirmed the penalties ordered by the district court.
